

S_No_	28
Vernacular	मैदा छाल (Maida Bark)
Scientific	Litsea glutinosa
Family	Lauraceae
Remarks_	छाल अगरबत्ती बनाने में प्रयुक्त (Used in making incense sticks)
Latitude	23.3577
Longitude	85.2439
Plant_Orig	Native

Maida chaal

Litsea glutinosa (Lour.) C.B.Rob.

F- Lauraceae

Litsea glutinosa commonly known as maida chaal and pojo, a small size tree. It is Native to India, South China, Malaysia, Philippines, and Australia. Leaves are elliptical to oblong- elliptical. Small yellowish colour flowers are crowded in axis of the upper leaves. Small round shape fruits are initially green turned black when ripe. The powdered bark known as jigat, used as an adhesive past in incense stick production. Leaves and fruits are used for making essential oils. Widely dispersed through birds and rodents and germinated very well specially under shade condition. Its leaves and bark are used as medicine. Fruits have a sweet creamy edible pulp. The powdered bark, known as ‘Jigat’ used as an adhesive part in making incense stick since century. Litsea leaves are used as a feed to Muga Silkworm.